Ballenger Cites Achievements Of C. of C.

Secretary Urges Businessmen Boost Membership Drive

"Let us keep the SALE in Salem."

This was the enthusiastic urging of Victor Ballenger, executive secretary of the Salem Area Chamber of Commerce, who addressed a monthly membership meeting of the C. of C. at noon Monday in the Lape Hotel.

In a talk titled "The Salem Chamber Story," Ballenger told about 40 members at the luncheon, "We have sponsored and been engaged in several important projects," Ballenger reported.

Rt. 62 Relocation

He mentioned specifically: Attention the chamber has given to the Route 62 relocation; meetings of the C. of C. which eventually led to the formation of Salem Air Park; and chamber sponsorship of an annual industrial safety campaign, five political action courses, and the yearly Business Opportunity Day.

"In the past two years Salem has been blessed with an encouraging outlook for the future," declared Ballenger. "In that time 12 firms have become members of our industrial family — six last year — and several others have expanded."

"Our first responsibility is to our present firms," he said. He mentioned that five firms have been assisted with problems of re-zoning, roadway to plant, water line, parking and sewer line. The solving of these problems, declared the executive secretary, brings about business expansion.

A & P Work Progressing
"A & P work locally is moving along," Ballenger reported. "And Mullins expansion also gives optimistic feelings. These help to make a growing city."

Ballenger cited these additional ways in which the chamber serves its members: By publication of a monthly bulletin of coming events and of activities in the making; by membership luncheons and dinners with informative programs; by maintaining "close contact with state and national organizations;" by solicitation control; and by providing use of zoning maps, census data and information about ordinances.

The C. of C. officer reported that last year 1,951 persons called at the chamber office, that 3,439 outgoing phone calls were made, and that 2,157 incoming phone calls were received. He

The grand jury, after being charged by Judge Buzzard, toured the county jail and returned after lunch to begin investigating eight cases in which 10 witnesses were summoned to testify today.

The schedule lists 20 cases with 15 witnesses Wednesday, with the jury expected to report Thursday. The April term of court officially opened Monday noon with a dinner at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Home for the Columbiana County Bar Association, which then returned to the Courthouse for its regular meeting. Board Hires Non-Teaching Personnel

Coaches at United Relieved of Duties

Raymond Russell, Larry Joseph and Neile Clarke were relieved of their duties as United High School coaches by the Board of Education at a special meeting at the school Monday night.

Members of the board declared they dismissed the three mentors "in the best interests of the United athletic program."

Executive Head Chester Brautigam said, "Nobody likes a losing team, and it seems that in neither major sport was United able to produce a winning team."

United's football teams were under the direction of Russell since the school began playing the sport six years ago. During that span the Golden Eagles posted a 63-64 record.

The basketball squad guided by Joseph the past three years compiled a 30-34 mark. In his first year the Golden Eagles had a 6-12 record going into tourney play, then swept by six straight opponents before being knocked out.

Clarke, Junior High School mentor, served as a coach only one year.

Written applications for the three vacancies will be accepted by Brautigam at United School.

Head coaches receive $500 over base salary. At the junior high

Honorary Citizen

Churchill Becomes Official American Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill, the magnificent Briton, becomes officially today what he has been for two decades in the hearts of Americans—the first honorary citizen of the United States.

The bestowing of this honor, unique in history, requires only a touch of President Kennedy's pen or a bill enacted by Congress and a second signature on a presidential proclamation.

Wary now with the weight of 88 years, Sir Winston was unable to be present to receive a nation's accolade. Neither were Herbert Hoover, Harry S. Truman and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the three former presidents, able to accept Kennedy's invitation to attend.

The ceremony was carefully timed, at 3 p.m. EST, so that the British Broadcasting Corp. could bounce it off the orbiting Relay satellite and Churchill could watch it on television in his London home.

Sir Winston sent a special message of acceptance and appreciation to be read by his son, Randolph.

The setting was the Rose Garden, outside the White House where Churchill helped chart the strategy of global war and peered at the problems of an uneasy peace in the climactic years of a stirring erratic career.

It was in this house that the man Britain chose as her prime minister in the moment of her greatest peril showed up suddenly and secretly a few days after Japan smashed at Pearl Harbor and the United States went limping off to war.

Side by side in the oval presidential office, Churchill and Franklin D. Roosevelt thundered at the common enemy at a joint news conference. They assured the world that Allied might ultimately would win out over Germany first and then Japan. Spry-

Men's Day Observed

'Forgiveness' Theme Of Holy Week Service

"Forgiveness" was the theme of the sermon by Rev. Harold Winn, pastor of the First Friends Church, at the Monday noon Holy Week service at the First United Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Robert Irwin, minister of education at the First Methodist Church, presided, and Men's Day was observed.

The text from Luke, "Father forgive them, for they know not what they do," was used by Rev. Winn for his three-part message, "Prayer, Possibilities, and the Plea."

First stressed was the mystery of the place where the worst crime ever committed took place. Men have been killed in all possible ways but never before had the Son of God been killed, the creature killing his creator.

The meaning of the place is explained in that sin is exposed in its true light in the crucifying of the Saviour. That there is a message is explained in that there is a place for forgiveness of sin.

The prayer at this place of crucifixion was explained in three parts: the one the prayer is from is the mistreated, misunderstood, misjudged and the miracle working one; the one the prayer is to, God the Father, and the ones the prayer is for, the crucifiers, you, and me.

The possibilities of the place is that only total forgiveness, true forgiveness, and timeless forgiveness, can be found at this place.

The plea, "He died for all, that they which live should not henceforth live unto themselves, but

1 Killed, 4 Hurt As Bus Slams Truck
SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — A Greyhound bus slammed into the rear of a steel-laden truck on the Ohio Turnpike near here today, killing a woman bus passenger and hospitalizing four other passengers.

Forty-two other passengers on the double deck bus, en route to New York City from Chicago, were taken to Fisher-Titus Hospital in Norwalk. They were released after treatment for minor injuries.

The dead woman was Mrs. Gloria Lofter, 32, of Lancaster, Pa. The collision, which occurred six miles east of the Sandusky Interchange, sheared off the right front portion of the bus. The Ohio Highway Patrol said four seats in that section, including one occupied by the dead woman, were hurled out of the bus. The vehicle stayed upright on the road, however.

A news reporter said the bus driver told him, "all I know is when I looked up it (the truck) was there."

Ohio Turnpike officials said it was the first fatality on the turnpike in 118 days—longest period in the toll road's history in which no fatalities were reported.

Excise Bill Action Due In Senate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Senate may complete action today on a bill which would give the Republican administration a cash windfall of $30 million.

Richard L. Krabach has said the measure to require public utilities to make quarterly, rather than annual, payments of their excise tax would be a welcome addition to the state's ready cash balance.

As things now stand, utility excise taxes have been paid once each year and the entire proceeds go for poor relief, part by counties which receive a subsidy from uses the rest of the utility fund and part from the state which uses the res of he utility fund to finance its share of relief cost.

If the state succeeds in getting quarterly payments from the utilities, in advance of the normal annual collection date of next December, the cash - poor treasury could benefit by $30 million in ready cash even though there might be no real gain in revenue over a 12-month period. The state simply would get the money earlier without the obligation to pay counties.

Hard - pressed counties which are straining their seams in an attempt to meet current relief bills are insisting they should share in the early collection of utility excise taxes.

Monday night, as the Senate started its 14th work week, it passed and sent to the House a bill to regulate junk yards outside municipalities and to keep them in the backgrounds.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill requiring notice to county commissioners or municipal councils of new or transferred liquor permits into a given area. The transfer matter was brought into the bill by Rep. Michael Sweeney, D - Cuyahoga, over the objections of the principal sponsor, Rep. Fred Cassel, R-Wyandot. The bill now goes to the Senate.

Ohio Senate Passes Sargus Junkyard Bill

By WILLIAM S. VANCE
News Staff Correspondent
COLUMBUS — Bills sponsored by Sen. Edmund A. Sargus, D-St. Clairsville, found easy sledding Monday night in the Senate and House.

The Senate approved 24-4 Sargus' bill to license and regulate auto junk yards. At the same time, the house passed 109-9 a bill sponsored by Sargus and Sen. Robert Stockdale, R - Kent, to extend Ohio's drunk driving law to cover 3.2 beer.

The junk yard bill, which now goes to the House, would require dealers to obtain a $100 license from the county auditor, renewable for $25 a year. All fees would go to the county's general fund.

A dealer could not obtain a license if his yard were within 1,000 feet of a state or county highway or within 300 feet of a township road unless it were fenced or naturally obscured.

The bill applies only to junk yards outside of municipalities. All existing and future junk yards in unincorporated areas would have to be licensed, but only those established or expanded after Jan. 1, 1964, would have to be fenced.

Thus, a dealer with an existing junk yard near a highway would not have to fence it unless he expanded.

Miss Bancroft, Peck Chosen Top Stars

'Lawrence of Arabia' Sweeps Oscars Race, Wins 7 Awards

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Gregory Peck, a four-time loser in the Oscar finals, and Anne Bancroft, an actress Hollywood once ignored, are winners of the movie's best actor and best actress awards for 1962.

"Lawrence of Arabia" was named the year's best film Monday night at the 35th annual Academy Awards ceremony, and a grandfather, Ed Begley, and a teen-ager, Patty Duke, won best supporting actor and actress honors.

Miss Duke, who played the child Helen Keller in "The Miracle Worker," is the first juvenile ever to win an Academy Award. Shirley Temple, among others, have received honorary awards in the past.

In a glamor-packed setting at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium, the taciturn Peck confessed that he came to the show "prepared to be a graceful loser."

"I'm just a little stunned about the whole thing. It really staggered me," Peck said.

Then he pulled out a gold pocket watch from his vest. "Harper Lee mailed it to me just this morning. She said it belonged to her father and he wore it for 60 years and she wanted me to wear it to the Academy Awards. She also said she dropped it in the gravy when she was 6 years old. I was clutching it when my name was called."

Sales Book Firm To Appeal

Supreme Court Ruling In Lisbon Case Sought

Four Pittsburgh men, officers of the Lisbon Sales Book Co., have announced plans to seek a State Supreme Court ruling on whether Ohio's new anti-gambling law is constitutional.

R. Brooke Alloway of Columbus, attorney for the men, said this will be his next move after a conference Monday with G. William Brokaw, Columbiana County prosecutor.

The four men, charged with printing numbers wagering slips in violation of the state law, are Martin Sufrin, company president; Isadore Sufrin, vice president; Joseph Sufrin, secretary-treasurer, and Michael Scheidegger, general manager.

All have been free on $1,000 bond. They were charged after former Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy led a raid on the firm in September 1961.

Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp dismissed the indictments in December 1961, declaring that the law was unconstitutional because it does not require that the manufacture or printing of slips of paper be done with the knowledge or intent that they are to be used in the numbers game.

City Meter Bill Hearing Set May 27

A mandamus action hearing of the City of Salem against City Auditor Helen R. Coyne has been set for May 27 before Common Pleas Judge Joel H. Sharp.

The hearing will involve Mrs. Coyne's refusal to pay for $12,842 worth of parking meters purchased in August, 1961. Mrs. Coyne claims the meters were ordered illegally by Mayor Dean B. Cranmer, without City Council's approval, and without certification by the auditor that money for the meters was in fund.

She declares that if she pays the bill the state auditor will have a finding against her. The mandamus action was filed against her by City Solicitor Thomas Coe to make her pay the meter company after Council authorized their payment.

Gregory Peck

Anne Bancroft

Miss Lee is the author of the Pulitzer Prize-winning "To Kill a Mockingbird," based on childhood reminiscences of her father, a small-town Southern lawyer. Peck played the father in the movie.

Miss Bancroft, who portrayed Annie Sullivan, the tenacious teacher of the blind and deaf Helen Keller in "The Miracle Worker," was busy Monday night on the New York stage — where she became a star after years in B movies. Joan Crawford accepted the Oscar for her.

Early in the night, as technical awards were announced, it looked like a sweep for "Lawrence of Arabia."

It almost was. The $12-million movie of the mysterious World War I hero won seven Oscars for sound, film editing, music score, color art direction, cinematography, best director (Britisher David Lean) and best movie.

The best song award went to "Days of Wine and Roses" from the movie of the same name. The music was written by Henry Mancini and the lyrics by Johnny Mercer.

Dinsio Brothers Trial Delayed

15-Day Continuance Asked by Attorney

The off-again, on-again trial of the four Dinsio brothers bogged down in a legal slough after their attorney, Jack Nydell of Youngstown, asked for a 15-day continuance Monday.

The trial of the Dinsios—Amil, 26, of Poland, James, 33, of Salem, Vincent, 40, of Washingtonville and William, 36, of RD Salem—was to begin yesterday in Mahoning County Common Pleas Court but was delayed by Atty. Nydell's requests.

The four are charged with six counts of receiving $21,500 worth of stolen property.

In addition to the request for the continuance, Nydell filed for a bill of particulars, seeking more information than is given in the indictment charging the Dinsios with receiving the stolen goods.

Nydell also asked leave to withdraw the Greenford and Leetonia stripmine operators' pleas of innocent which they entered at arraignment before Judge Erskine Maiden Jr. Dec. 3 after their November indictment.

Amil and James, out on $2,500 bail after their arraignment, crashed back into the news twice since that time, once when they were arrested following a Pittsburgh tool and supply store robbery in January, and most recently after Amil's capture with two other Mahoning County men at the Turkey Run Inn near Columbiana on March 28 with allegedly stolen rare coins.

Amil, trapped along with Harrold Dailey, 32, and Daniel Marshall, 33, of Austintown Township, was freed on $25,000 bail Tuesday on charges of carrying concealed weapons and possession of burglary tools. His companions made bond and were freed two days before.

Fail To Win Majority In House

TORONTO (AP)—The Liberals, who ruled for 22 years until John G. Diefenbaker came along, re-emerged as Canada's top party today but without a hands-down majority. As a result the nation faces the possibility of more weeks of indecision in government.

Returns from Monday's voting showed Lester B. Pearson's Liberals just short of the 133 seats needed to command the House of Commons over the combined strength of opposition parties. Pearson expressed hope that the vote from the armed services overseas may shift the picture. It is to be announced next week.

Nearly complete returns gave the Liberals 126 seats, the Conservatives 94, Social Credit 24 and the New Democratic party 17.

This left only four seats undecided.

By the usual standards, the party gaining most seats in the House of Commons names the prime minister. This would entitle Pearson, at 65, to take over the leadership he failed to gain in two previous attempts.

But Diefenbaker hinted that he intends to hold onto the top job—at least until the parties line up when Parliament meets next month.

Diefenbaker said the situation appeared to him to be much like that which prevailed in 1925 when the Liberal Party led by W.L. Mackenzie King made a smaller showing than the Conservatives but chose to stay in office by collaborating with other parties.

Diefenbaker, who was at home in Saskatchewan, indicated his course might be clarified when he holds a Cabinet meeting on his return to Ottawa.

"I will leave to Mr. Diefenbaker to decide what his own responsibility is. I know what mine is," Pearson said.

He expressed belief that Parliament should be called quickly after the Council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization holds a long-scheduled meeting in Ottawa May 22.

The NATO meeting will be looking for Canada's answer to the question whether it should accept nuclear warheads for Bomarc missiles based in Canada and for Canadian interceptor forces in Europe.

Diefenbaker has insisted the Bomarc are out of date, or at least serve only as decoys for possible enemy bombing. He made this an issue in the campaign in an underlying current of anti-Americanism—or pro-Canadianism, as Diefenbaker expressed it.

The United States has insisted that Canada is dragging its heels on making good certain commitments for defense, including acceptance of nuclear warheads. Diefenbaker denied this. Pearson said Canada must go ahead with its commitments and then re-examine the situation.

Last June's election gave Diefenbaker only a minority in Parliament, but he commanded the

The Meaning of the Resurrection:

Psychic Researchers Seek Proof

EDITOR'S NOTE—After Hamlet talked with the ghost of his father, he said to his friend, "There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamt of in your philosophy." Modern scholars, too, are interested in apparitions and spirit communications, often as possible proofs that human life continues after physical death. The Rev. Dr. Thomas S. Kepler examines these psychic researchers in the second of five articles taken from his book, "The Meaning and Mystery of the Resurrection." The book is published by Association Press, copyrighted by the National Board of YMCAs.

By DR. THOMAS S. KEPLER
There are some today who find their chief proof for life after death as they delve into psychic research, backing up their arguments with the new views of science regarding the nonmaterial nature of the universe.

Frederick W. H. Myers, Sir Oliver Lodge, Alexis Carrel and J. B. Rhine are four scholars different in their approaches yet all relating their thoughts to the mental nature of the universe and the validity of extrasensory perception.

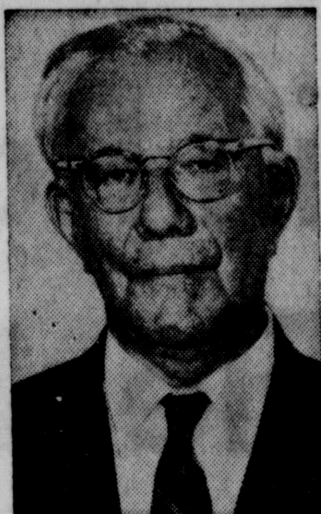

Wrote Frederick W. H. Myers:

"I HAVE ASSUMED that man is an organism informed or possessed by a soul. This view obviously involves the hypothesis that we are living in two worlds at once, a planetary life in this material world, to which the organism is intended to react; and also a cosmic life in that spiritual or metetherial world, which is the native environment of the soul.

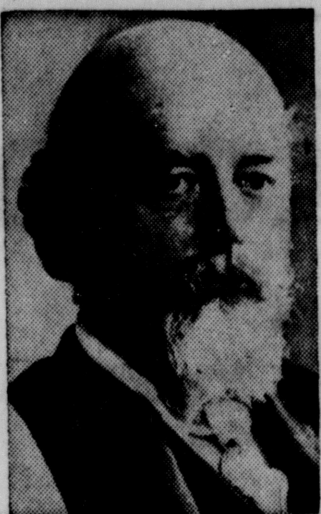

"We gradually discovered that the accounts of apparitions at the moment of death—testifying to a supersensory communication between the dying man and the friend who sees him—led on without perceptible break to apparitions occurring after the death of the person seen, but while that death was not known to the perceptive; and thus, apparently due, not to mere brooding memory, but to a continued action of that departed spirit."

The researches of Sir Oliver Lodge led him to see his universe in this manner:

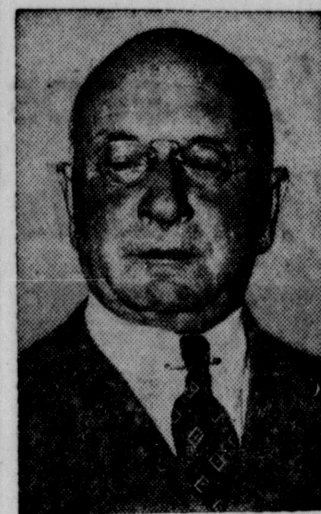

"I have gradually come to the view that the main realities of

Paul J. Tillich

Sir Oliver Lodge

Alexis Carrel

J. B. Rhine

the Universe are not in matter at all, but in the ether in space. We ask: Shall we survive? Survive what — our temporary and indirect and secondary connection with matter? You see that this question of survival . . . is what we used to call a husteron proteron — ('the cart before the horse.') The marvel is that we are associated with matter at all."

Thus Sir Oliver Lodge views man's place in the physical world as a temporary abode, while the spiritual world is his everlasting reality.

EXPERIENCE OF mankind has shown that the higher conceptions of the world, which lie in the realms of the poetic, the artistic and often also in the realm of the scientific, are in the area of the immaterial and the unseen, which is the world of the ideal.

When our spirits attain this ethereal region, no longer imprisoned by the realm of the senses, we shall be unshackled from our limitations of the present world. We shall then be "at home."

Dr. Alexis Carrel, a medical doctor with the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, also saw the spiritual nature of the universe where extrasensory perception is possible.

"The beauty pursued by the mystic is still richer and more indefinable than the ideal of the artist . . . It requires an elevation of the mind toward a being who is the source of all things . . . whom the mystic calls God.

"He who wants to undertake this rough and difficult journey must renounce all the things of this world and, finally, himself. His mind escapes from space and time . . . He reaches the stage of unitive life . . . He is in God and acts with him.

"(There is) the existence of a psychic principle capable of evolving outside the limits of our bodies . . . Sometimes . . . personality seems really to extend beyond physiological duration."

J. B. Rhine of Duke University in recent years in his experiments has reported instances in which persons "knew" about the deaths of loved ones before the news was given them in a conventional way.

Clairvoyance and precognition prove that mind can transcend both space and time which possibly intimates immortality on the scientific level. According Rhine: "Now all that immortality means is freedom from the effects of space and time; death seems to be purely a matter of coming to a halt in the space-time universe. Therefore the conclusion that there is at least some sort of technical survival would seem to follow as a logical derivation from the ESP (extrasensory perception) research."

NUMEROUS PERSONS today are undoubtedly influenced by the thinking of such persons as Myers, Lodge, Carrel and Rhine to believe in the spiritual nature of the universe, the nonmaterial nature of the real self and consequently in the survival of man beyond the grave.

When Christian people are convinced of these tenets regarding man and his universe, they are naturally further convinced regarding the reality of Jesus' resurrection from the grave, even though the words "resurrection" and "immortality" may not have quite the same connotation.

Water Stand Pipe To Be Erected

Lisbon Council Approves Option To Purchase Land

LISBON — Lisbon Council Monday night approved an option to purchase a 125 by 125-foot square piece of land from Mrs. Ruth Riddle, off Route 45, just north of the village.

Russell (Dutch) Shaw, member of the Board of Public Affairs, made the request and explained that the board would pay for the land which will cost $1,000. Shaw said the board plans to erect a water stand pipe to alleviate a low water pressure condition in the area.

Shaw pointed out that the village has annexed land east of Route 45, which is owned by Robert Williams, and must increase the water pressure there if the tract is developed.

In other business Council accepted a petition of Raphael E. Darcy, Wanda M. Darcy, Anne Brennan and Betty J. Zahndt to close an alley between Lots No. 3 and 4 in the S. J. Firestone Addition off W. Chestnut St. The alley has not been used for several years.

Councilman Joseph Dornon reported on the "deplorable" condition of the Center Township village dump, southwest of the village. Mayor Dean Stockman said that action would be taken to remedy the condition.

Council also discussed purchase of several pieces of used equipment, including a high-lift and a street sweeper. No action was taken because the village doesn't have the necessary funds.

A request by Ed Wolfe for a parking stall in front of his store on S. Park Ave. was discussed but no action was taken.

Bills of $3,231 were ordered paid. The board's next meeting will be April 22 at 7:30 p.m.

Austintown Board OKs Baccalaureate

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The Board of Education in nearby Austintown has changed its mind and now will hold baccalaureate services at Fitch High School in June.

Board members Monday night voted to reverse a previous stand banning the service on the ground it was religious symbolism in a public school.

The unanimous decision of the five-man board calls for a Catholic priest and two Protestant ministers to participate in the exercise. Clergymen will be asked to wear civilian garb but the priest may wear a Roman collar, the board said.

In banning the service for 208 seniors, the board felt the recent U.S. Supreme Court ruling on school prayers opened the board to possible censure if clergymen were invited.

Four key differences between the reckless and the careful investor
(Recognize anyone?)

Here's how to tell one from the other:

Reckless: Flames into action on a tip.

Careful: Ignores the tip and settles down for a good hard look at the facts. What does the company sell? What are its prospects? What have its earnings been? What dividends has it been paying?

The careful investor has information like this before he invests a penny. Not only to help him make intelligent investments. But to help him choose securities that seem most likely to bring him to his goals. Such as a second income from dividends. Or growth in value of his stock. Or the relative stability of value and income that good bonds can provide.

Reckless: Is happily certain the price can only go up.

Careful: Knows that the prices of stocks and bonds go down as well as up. That a company may falter or fail, may not continue to pay dividends or interest. But he also knows that as America grows he may have the opportunity to grow with it through wise shareownership.

Reckless: Thinks all brokers are alike and any broker will do.

Careful: Knows that brokers differ—though none are infallible. He's aware that a Member Firm of the New York Stock Exchange is required to observe many Exchange rules. And that he will have the services there of a Registered Representative who has met the Exchange's qualifications. A Member Firm can provide him with many facts essential to farsighted selection of good stock.

Reckless: Plunges with whatever money he has, hoping for fast gains.

Dr. Perry E. Gresham, president of Bethany College, Bethany, W. Va., will be the guest speaker at the Easter morning worship service of the First Christian Church.

An educator, author, philosopher, church leader and public speaker, Dr. Gresham is the 12th president of Bethany, a co-educational, liberal arts school, which was founded in 1840 by Alexander Campbell, who also founded the First Christian Disciples of Christ Church of Lisbon in 1826.

Dr. Gresham, top man in his graduating class at Texas Christian University in 1930, received his graduate study at the University of Chicago and Columbia University.

He was awarded the honorary degree LL. D from Texas Christian University in 1949 and in 1954, Culver-Stockton College of Canton, Mo., conferred the Litt. D. degree upon him.

Canton City Council Ousts Safety Chief

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Canton City Council has decided to investigate vice and racket conditions and has ousted its safety director.

The Republican-controlled council voted 8-6 Monday night to subpoena witnesses and turn over evidence to legal authorities for further action.

Council's action to abolish the $10,400 yearly safety director's post apparently stemmed from a raid last Wednesday that closed eight alleged houses of prostitution.

The safety director's job now will be combined with that of service director, a position held by Cliff W. Gehrum.

Safety Director Ray F. Barrett was granted a temporary leave of absence from his job over the weekend. Councilmen demanded Barrett's firing because he allegedly was given a list of the houses last month but did nothing about it.

Barrett, a 20-year-veteran of the Canton police force, has accused council of making what he described as a vicious and unsubstantiated attack on him.

Special 4-dr. sedan tops all Class D middle size cars with V-8 engines in Mobil Economy Run!

Here's official proof of everything you've heard about the Buick Special V-8 with Dual Path Turbine Drive*. It's a terrific performer—a shameless gas miser. Facts: it's beaten every V-8, big or small, three years running. This year, by at least 2.34 mpg! And with regular gas.

Of course, not everyone can get this winning gas mileage in everyday driving (Run drivers are trained experts—the engines, finely tuned). But this rough, tough 2500-mile test proves how much real gas economy is built into every Special.

And the Special has lots more going for it. Like—choice of three smooth, snappy transmissions. An economical V-6, if you prefer (only Buick has it!). All thoroughly Buick. All amazingly low priced.

Mt. Union College's Growth

Dr. O. N. Hartshorn who founded Mount Union College 117 years ago probably never, in his fondest dreams and aspirations, envisioned an educational center equal to that which is rapidly developing at nearby Alliance.

In addition to new, modern physical facilities, Mount will be able to accommodate a full-time enrollment of 1,200 students by 1970, when the college's "Program For the Sixties" will be completed. Work is expected to start early this summer on construction of a Music Wing which will complete the long-sought Fine Arts Center. Mount Union College President Dr. Carl Bracy best describes it as "another significant milestone" in the school's growth.

Aside from the "bricks and mortar" phase of Mount's progress, considerable advancement has been made in strengthening and expanding the liberal arts curriculum which, naturally, is of paramount interest to young men and women continuing their education beyond high school.

How fortunate for Salem district youths that Mount Union is only 12 miles away, within easy distance for commuting.

Much credit for Mount Union's progress must go to her many friends and alumni, who have been gracious with gifts. Mount is not a state-supported school and therefore must rely almost wholly on tuition, endowments and the Ohio Foundation of Independent Colleges for operational funds.

Perhaps Mount's success lies in the fact that its educators and its board of trustees recognize the school's responsibility to more effectively serve and educate its students and have the courage to pursue and obtain the facilities that are required.

No Specialists Should Be Needed

This time next week, the great income tax ordeal by confiscation and exemption will be all over but the recriminations.

Another federal income tax deadline will have been reached.

Taxpayers who thought they had paid through the nose beyond any point of reason will have found they owe still more. Many will have to borrow money to cover their obligations to a government whose tax rates according to its own admission are confiscatory.

Other taxpayers will wonder for months and even years to come if all the exemptions they claimed were permissible and if the specialists whose services they hired to steer them through the intricacies of a law so hodge-podge that no one can say exactly what it means were good enough to keep them out of trouble.

APRIL IS the annual deadline for wishing something could be done about the federal income tax. If it cannot be made less confiscatory, it might be made less confusing.

What honest people want is a simplified system of levying federal income tax that will make it possible for any taxpayer to know at a glance what he owes and to know that every other taxpayer is in the same situation.

What honest people want is the privilege of paying their income tax without wondering if they took advantage of all the loopholes and rat-holes built into the tax structure by pressure blocs and muscled minorities that wanted a way out when the revenue agents knocked at the front door.

It could be done. But no one thinks it will be done, because the defenders of the loopholes and rat-holes are so much more determined than the people who wouldn't know how to use a loophole if they saw one.

IT SHOULD be possible to figure a percentage of what an income earner took in and know he owed that much to the federal government, no more, no less, no exemptions, no exceptions, no deductions, no percentage of one thing and not of another thing.

The thing that keeps it from happening is the opposition of the people who have something to gain by keeping the income tax structure so confused it requires a specialist to know its twisting and turnings.

Not Since Eliza And the Hounds

It would be strange in a country where man is dog's best friend and vice versa if the use of trained dogs by police to terrorize Negroes in Birmingham, Ala., did not stir the public conscience.

The use of dogs in war can be tolerated; an enemy has been designated officially. But racial friction in Birmingham is not combat for national survival.

The dogs used there to terrorize Negroes and keep them from assembling in public demonstrations of their right to vote are not attacking criminals. The Negroes' offense is not against the law, but against officers of the law who have the peculiar responsibility in Birmingham of denying the rights of the law to citizens who are not white.

There are as many people who hold dogs in high esteem in Birmingham as in all cities. Many are Negroes. But their protest against this misuse of man's most faithful companion and servant may be stifled by the rancor and hatred that have poisoned all reasonableness and equity in Birmingham.

Elsewhere, in all parts of the country where people still think straight about this persistent trial of our times, there should be strong protests. The use of dogs against Negroes is an unconscionable act of brutality. The most horrible passage in Harriet Beecher Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin" should have no counterpart in the United States in 1963.

Not An Essay For the Teacher

One of our readers has made a suggestion about a matter so obvious it may be hard for some people to see.

He thinks we should call attention to the fact that in our representative form of government the people who represent us need to be in touch with voters back home.

The most direct way to get in touch, next to face-to-face conversation, is by mail. The trouble is, our reader believes, that many people choke up at the idea of writing a letter or even a message on a correspondence card.

He suggests that we tell people it doesn't matter whether the message is a masterpiece—that what impresses the legislator is hearing from a constituent over the constituent's signature.

Tell them, he says, they aren't writing a theme for a school teacher. Tell them they are showing their interest in a public issue. What they're doing, as a matter of fact, is exercising the right to petition. Our reader is right when he says it doesn't matter how the petition is phrased.

If a voter makes his views known, that is what matters.

The address is not too important, when public officials are concerned. The Post Office will figure out whether messages to Washington go to the House Office Building or the Senate Office Building—or their new additions—as long as the name is on the envelope and the mail gets to Washington, D.C.

Messages to the governor of the state will reach him if sent to the capitol in the capital city. Local legislators' addresses are easy to obtain, usually by looking them up in the telephone book.

Sir John

By Truman Twill

It's our hunch Sir Winston Churchill isn't fooled by the honorary U.S. citizenship bestowed on him.

He knows it is not like being knighted, which is the British way of giving recognition to people currently useful and who could be more so if they had a badge of merit.

He knows it is not because he has been so well-loved that honorary U.S. Citizenship is an outpouring of affection.

Rather, it's because Congress, reflecting what is in the minds of many Americans, wanted to make a gesture of respect for one of the last of the individualists—the greatest of his time.

Winston Churchill spent a large part of his life looking down the throats of his critics and his enemies. Even in British politics, which permits a man to swim upstream if he gets a kick out of it, he was a chronic wrangler.

He was headstrong and arrogant. He was over-confident of his own opinions. He was intolerant of ideas he disagreed with and people he disliked.

His tongue was sharp. He was self-indulgent. Much of the time he took what the United States would call unfair advantage of his position. He was a snob.

He was all these things—but many more. He was one of the great personalities of his era—adventuresome as a young man, doughty as a middle-aged man, unconquerable as an old man.

In an era when mankind seemed to be a flock of sheep preyed on by a band of wolves, Winston Churchill was one of a few with the guts and integrity to inspire leadership and make the sheep want to fight back.

He was listened to because he had spoken up in times when no one welcomed unsolicited opinions that later proved to be correct.

His inferiors recognized that he had the intelligence, philosophy, audacity and personal honor to make him a trustworthy leader.

His peers had to put up or shut up until he stumbled; they yielded to his leadership, though only temporarily. Then, true to form, they threw him out when the crisis was over. By that time, though, he had their number.

No one ever heard Winston Churchill whimper. No one ever saw him try to kiss his way to favor. No one ever saw him crawl on his belly, lick a hand, or use soft soap.

He was true to himself. Adversity often flattened him temporarily, but he always came back fighting.

The British have a national image they call John Bull. Winston Churchill and the image were the same thing. He was Sir John.

It's like the American image of Uncle Sam, except it hasn't seemed true to life since Abraham Lincoln. We keep looking for someone to suit the image of what we like to think we are.

So we conferred honorary citizenship on Winston Churchill. We couldn't knight him, so we adopted him.

Foreign Aid Problem Doesn't Belong to U.S. Alone

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Foreign aid is just a headline phrase to millions of American readers. To Congress, it is a perplexing segment of an already top-heavy budget. To the taxpayers, it's either an unnecessary expense or an expenditure that at least needs cutting.

Actually, foreign aid is the most costly and perhaps the greatest adventure in humanitarianism and unselfishness that any single nation has ever undertake in world history.

Even if the program stopped tomorrow, the record of the United States, so far as altruistic purpose is concerned, would outshine what any other nation has ever attempted. Some estimates have been published which indicate that about 100 billion dollars, virtually one-third of the national debt of the United States, has been spent on aid to the rest of the world from America. This includes military help and economic and technical projects, both loans and grants — money, materials, supplies and personnel.

But the question today is what to do about financing all this for the future.

President Kennedy tactfully appointed a special commission to make a study and a report.

BUT EVEN SO comprehensive a report as was recently submitted by the committee headed by Gen. Lucius Clay does not come to grips with the problem of how to deal with this relatively new and baffling challenge in world history. Nor did the secretary of state, Dean Rusk, by his lengthy and earnest statement to the House Foreign Affairs Committee last week, meet the real issue.

It is this: Should the United States do the job virtually alone?

Stated briefly, a major question is not how much the United States can give away each year but whether the strategy behind the giving is well conceived and whether it is an attempt to do too much with too little.

Also, it may be questioned whether all sections of the ambitious program are really feasible and can ever accomplish their aims.

Secretary Rusk oversimplifies the argument by pointing to the areas in the world where America's financial assistance has had fruitful results in the sense that Communist influence has been diminished.

He made a serious mistake, however, in the following comment in testimony before the House Committee on Foreign Affairs: "There is nothing that the Communists want more than to see the 'Yanks go Home' — not only from Western Europe, but from the Mediterranean, South Asia, the Far East, Latin America, Africa, everywhere."

"If we Yanks come home, the Communists will begin to take over. Why any American would want to cooperate with that global strategy is beyond my understanding. But that is what sharp cuts in our foreign-aid program would mean."

THIS IS an erroneous interpretation of the speeches and statements of those who have wanted the foreign aid program revised for the principle itself has been widely approved.

What is doubted is whether the United States is administering the program efficiently and whether the American taxpayer has resources enough to continue aid to 95 countries in the world on the scale of the last decade and a half.

He cry that if billions aren't spent, "the Communists will take over" has a hollow sound today.

The impression is conveyed that the United States is buying friendship with dollars not only in the Americas but throughout the world.

The feeling prevails in the underdeveloped countries that if the United States doesn't furnish money, the Russians will. One side is played off against the other.

The United States, by its projects, cannot change the habits of human nature and produce intelligent leaders and democratic institutions merely by supplying funds or by the work of thousands of boys and girls in the Peace Corps.

Missionaries from many countries have for decades been helpful in the slow process of bringing civilization to lands where savagery has prevailed. It isn't a foreign aid task for the United States alone.

THE COMMUNIST impetus to the liberation and independence movements have been effective in Africa and Southeast Asia only because no over-all plan of foreign aid, coincident with the gradual withdrawal of European colonialism, was launched.

The foreign aid problem is not just a contest with the Soviet government. It's a project for all of the free nations together, and the sooner some common sense is applied to the organization of the whole project on a multi-nation basis, the quicker will the various countries on the underdeveloped category be started on the road to real progress without the rivalries and blackmail and extortion that characterize so many of the foreign aid programs of today.

Upset by 'School Sign' Editorial
I was personally disappointed in your editorial on the sign for Salem High School.

The senior class had three propositions before it: The sign, books to supplement our inadequate library and a set of therapeutic body-building machines for the auxiliary gyms. All had merit but the least meritorious was the sign.

It will satisfy the vain glory of students who can't resist having "Class of '63" etched in stone but will it directly benefit a single member of Salem High? I don't think so.

I personally believe that a school should be judged not by its outward beauty, its sprawling size, or the year in which it was constructed but by its educational facilities, its teachers and the students it produces. I think the News has interfered with scholastic policies.

Garden Club Says 'Thanks'

We want to thank The News for the editorials which have supported Senator Sargus and his bill relative to junk yard legislation.

The beauty of our countryside is being destroyed by these unsightly businesses. They are certainly honorable and a necessary business but surely they could be enclosed in some manner either by fences or some sort of high planting.

We have been advised that there are junk yards in Ohio that have made their properties attractive. We hope that places in the Salem area will want to do the same. The Salem Garden Club hopes to support any legislation that will help keep our community attractive and we hope the people of Salem will support this 100 per cent.

'Refocusing' on Crime

By VICTOR RIESEL

CHICAGO
Thousands of federal men have fanned out across the land on 934 cases, using legal weapons made possible by the new anti-racketeering laws.

Most of these investigations, conducted by many grand juries are in the early probing stage and not yet ready for immortalization on the TV screens.

Most are ripping the lid off of the gambling and narcotics end of the interlocking regional criminal syndicates.

But it is startling how frequently the pursuit of the mob leads to men who've been attempting to, or have succeeded in infiltrating labor circles and are terrorizing unions and businessmen.

It's all part of what has been reported here as "refocusing" by Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy and the Justice Department's Organized Crime and Racketeering Section.

This word "refocusing" is being used in a city startled by what has been a constant series of bombings of restaurants and stores and the blasting of a union leader's home.

Suddenly old-time hoods, some with long prison records, one a convicted killer, some out of the Touhy mob, or what's left of it, have cropped up — and in some labor groups at that.

THE FEDERALS are moving in, getting indictments and convictions. But that's not what Kennedy meant by refocusing. The Justice Department's new type of intelligence operation — namely the constant collation of pooled facts tossed into the hopper by the investigative agents of 26 federal bureaus, has led Kennedy to new mob personalities.

The new intelligence system has brought into focus powerful criminals about whom little was known — and has developed "vast" information about the syndicate chiefs who have long been colorful news items.

So the Justice Department has Sometimes a fellow who just can't think very fast gets the reputation for thoughtfulness.

not "refocused." It has simply given its lens a Cinema touch. scope of the probes. Chicagoans have come within the widening scope of the probes. Chicagoans may be used to it, but to a visitor it sounds strange to hear names again such as Basil (The Owl) Banghart and Martin J. Durkin.

BANGHART, who ran with the late Roger Touhy, but not fast enough because he was caught and did 27 years, has been before the famous federal labor racket grand jury here. Durkin was a fancy bandit who stole autos and killed a federal agent — for which he served 18 years in prison.

The other week both men show up on a job with cards from Local 136, Machinery Movers, Riggers and Machinery Erectors Union. They did all right for a while, but that local seems to be running in tough luck.

Not long after they got their work cards, which did not make the local look good, the union's business manager, Kendall Sweeney, found his house and car, not to mention surrounding territory, bombed.

Sweeney's predecessor is in federal prison, convicted of extorting money from employers.

There's another local in which the old Touhy mob had at least one member. This is Local 393 of the Bridge, Structural Reinforcing, Steel and Ornamental Iron Workers, Riggers and Machinery Movers Union, at Aurora, Ill. The member was Roger Touhy Jr. He was sentenced to prison for robbery.

THE LOCAL'S business agent, Roy Kramer, has been charged on five counts involving the Hobbs anti-extortion act and five violations of the Taft-Hartley law.

He is charged with extorting money through threats of disrupting labor peace.

There are a string of such probes here and throughout the Midwest. Unless the national labor leaders in Washington move in and clean up, there will be cries for another national racket probe.

There is a felon who was not eligible to hold office in one Midwest union because of the Landrum-Griffin Act's prohibition against the holding of office by anyone who has been imprisoned within the past five years.

THIS CHAP left jail and returned to the union he once ran. But because of the law, he became the union's janitor at $10,000 a year — plus a Cadillac. And he ran the organization from the basement — with muscle.

There will be a crackdown, but a lot of these goons with bad names may give labor a bad name before the season is over.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: Several weeks ago my husband triumphantly announced that he was giving up smoking. I was delighted, since Paul had been a heavy smoker for many years and I never believed he possessed enough will power to conquer the habit.

Paul was fine for about three days. Then he got so that he had to "go for a walk" after dinner. When he returns, after 10 minutes, he always smells of cigarette smoke. At bedtime he goes to the basement "to get something" and returns — once again, smelling of cigarette smoke.

On numerous occasions I have walked into Paul's office unexpectedly and found him smoking. The maneuvering and contortions he goes through to get rid of a cigarette are comical.

I've never said one word to him about this, but if he can't stop smoking why doesn't he admit it instead of making himself look ridiculous? — S.B.I.

Dear S.B.I.: Paul is childish. He's trying to cover up his "naughty behavior" because he's ashamed to admit he can't kick the habit.

Say nothing. The "walks" after dinner and the trips to the basement are probably the only exercise he gets.

Perk Up

Dear Ann: I know you are not a doctor but I couldn't talk to a man about this so please try to help me. I am 17 years old and am built like an ironing board. I have heard of creams and oils but I'm not sure they do any good. I have also heard of an operation where a surgeon can insert paraffin cups. I would even be willing to have the operation if I thought it would help me be more attractive to fellows.

I've had only four dates in my life and I'm sure this is the reason. What boy wants to take out Please tell me a girl who has no shape at all? — DATELESS.

Dear Dateless: The creams and oils do a lot of good — for the companies that sell them. I have never heard of a cream or an oil that ad'ed inches to a bustline.

As for surgery, you'll have to see your doctor — but I'd strongly oppose such radical measures.

I don't know what kind of fellows you are trying to attract, but if they go looking for dates with a tape measure they aren't worth bothering about. I suspect your real problem is a flat personality.

Tell What

Dear Ann: There is an awful lot of cheating going on in our room at school. Kids sit with books in their laps during exams. They look on each other's papers for the answers. I have seen these cheaters scribbling from prepared notes.

Our teacher has very poor eyesight and doesn't see what is going on. Shall we tell her who these cheaters are? It seems unfair that some of us should break our heads studying and see the cheaters get grades as good as ours.

Your advice is needed. — HONEST INJUN.

Dear Injun: Tell the teacher WHAT is going on — but don't tell her WHO. If her eyesight is poor, perhaps she should invite another teacher to "assist" her during examinations.

I am opposed to informing. I firmly believe that the chisellers and cheaters do themselves in eventually.

Confidentially

WTO UP TO YOU: Souvenir hunting 'my eye!' It's stealing. If everyone took a tablecloth as a "souvenir" the restaurants would be in pretty bad shape.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Four - H teens will learn the proper way to go about selecting fabrics and styles which best suit their skills and fashion needs. They will be encouraged to follow those "fashion prescriptions" which are most flattering to their own figure and personality types.

The girls will view large doses of the newest, brightest, gayest fabrics of spring. Interesting textures in cottons and blends, light airy dress-up fabrics and many, many border prints will be shown in patterns designed especially for teens.

As the show opens, there is a group of "Registered Sunshine Colors", so important for spring. This segment, for beginners, includes simple - to - make dresses and separates in golden yellow . . . all accented with feminine trim treatments. More simple separates show a variety of ways to use the new bordered fabrics. In this group they will see the new 4-H uniform.

"Capsule Classics" have many variations on separates styled for the more advanced sewer. Here, they will see how effectively neutrals can be used in any wardrobe plan.

The "shift" dress has invaded the daytime scene and 4-H girls will see "New Shift Treatments" in a special group of blue dresses. For sports, we recommend that they follow an "Rx for Fun" . . . a group of fun-time costumes shown in red, white and blue.

Finally it's pink . . . pink . . . for dates. These exciting "Sugar Pill Pinks" are truly eye-catching, frosted fashions and are shown in both slim and bouffant versions.

Women will also model cotton dresses made in recent classes in several communities in Mahoning County. Four-H members will model garments.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

DEAR HELOISE: We never have enough skirt and trouser hangers, so I take generous sections of newspaper and roll them around the bottom of our wire hangers. This can be secured either with string or scotch tape.

These rolls of paper can be covered with wall paper scraps or adhesive-backed paper. I make the rolls about three inches in diameter on each hanger. It does the best job of eliminating creases at the fold line (especially of men's trousers) that I have ever used and the cost is practically nil.

When you buy bath soap in those economical three or four bar packages, unwrap them all and place a bar here and there in a towel closet. The towels will absorb the soap's fragrance. Another advantage is that when the children are in the bathtub and leave the soap in the water so long, it does not soften as quickly, and saves lots of waste.

COCO HARRINGTON

DEAR HELOISE: How to make salads cold and crisp? Easy.

First I store my lettuce completely wrapped in a damp towel, but it is always left in the refrigerator, and when I redampen the towel I use ice water!

Second (and this is important), is the ridiculously little simple trick that takes no extra time but does require a little careful planning beforehand:

Well, before serving the salad, I place the bowl, tossing spoons and salad plates in my refrigerator so they will be thoroughly chilled when used.

I make my salad dressing early and put that in the refrigerator—so it will be cold too and so I won't have to make it at the last moment when everybody is ready to sit down.

Tomatoes and other ingredients are pre-peeled, sliced and placed in another bowl in the refrigerator. The purpose of all this hocus-pocus, and the secret of success of the salad is to leave the lettuce wrapped in its towel until the very last second. Then . . .

simply take it out, tear it apart and dump in the chilled bowl, adding the chilled salad dressing, seasonings, tomatoes, etc. and toss briefly and then serve.

GEORGE SCHMIDT

DEAR HELOISE: Please, please . . . how does one get mildew and mold (at least that's what it looks like) off bamboo blinds? We use these throughout our house (as do many of our neighbors).

Some neighbors put them on their porch to eliminate the evening sun but . . . they also mildew! It seems that when this type of blind is used inside or out, that mildew always comes. I sure will appreciate some other coffee friend letting us in on her secret.

MRS. WILLIAM CAROLE

DEAR HELOISE: I am a cripple and I must soak my legs several times a day in the bathtub. My sweet husband fixed a "desk" to put across the tub for me to work on because I felt I was wasting time.

He used a simple wide board and put bumpers underneath it to keep it from sliding on the tub. These bumpers are covered with foam rubber cut from an old ironing board pad.

Another thing my husband made is a large tray that slides onto the arms of my wheel chair. It is big enough and sturdy enough to even hold the typewriter, yet, I can go through the doorways and down the hallway with it.

For small things try a plastic litter bag slipped over the brake handle on the wheel chair. Wonderful.

BARBARA KRAFT

DEAR HELOISE: For those who have leaky milk cartons, may I suggest that they cut little squares of foil a few inches larger than the bottom of the carton itself and place the carton on this and gently allow it to come up around the sides of the milk carton and crush it with their fingers?

These little "cups" need not be wasted. They can be used over and over again . . . just in case!

Going to Mail Box Is Big Event at the Bob Evans Farm

If you are driving toward Gallipolis on U.S. Route 35 just outside of Rio Grande, you drive right through the Bob Evans Farm. At the lane entrance you will see the familiar Bob Evans Farm mailbox.

Bob likes to bring in the mail himself because it often is filled with letters from folks all over Ohio who regularly use Bob Evans Farms Sausage.

Last fall, Bob put out a "Country Cookbook". It contained several dozen favorite farm recipes for cooking sausage, plain and fancy. Thousands of these recipe books have been distributed.

Mail is now especially heavy at the 820-acre farm in the southern Ohio hills where all Bob Evans Farms Sausage is made, or on a second farm near Xenia, Ohio. Letters come mostly from people sending in their own favorite recipes for preparing Bob Evans Farms Sausage.

If you do not have a "Country Cookbook" and want one, send a dime to cover handling and mailing to: Bob Evans, Box 11, Gallipolis, Ohio.

Mrs. Ariane Tebbenjohanns said Monday night she has asked an attorney to work out details for a proxy marriage.

The 33-year-old divorcee came to Cleveland after conducting a romance by mail with Dr. Sam, 39, who is serving a life sentence in Ohio Penitentiary for killing his wife in July 1954.

FORD GALAXIE 500/XL SPORTS HARDTOP

YOU'LL KNOW WHY FORD SWEEPED THE FIRST FIVE PLACES AT DAYTONA...WHEN YOUR '63 FORD IS STILL GOING STRONG YEAR AFTER YEAR

Daytona's big, banked oval puts unbelievable stresses and strains on engines, steering gears and frames. The Fords that won at Daytona took all the punishment this famous track could dish out over 500 miles of grueling competition without missing a beat.

In this toughest of all stock car events, mechanical failures claimed over fifty per cent of the starting field. But of twelve Fords entered, nine went the distance. Ford took six of the first ten places.

Five-hundred-mile events like Daytona are a public demonstration of toughness, reliability and sheer engineering excellence that are part of the new generation of Fords. A test like this can't be duplicated on anybody's testing grounds—it's run right out in the open. Any car can enter. But only the car that has the best total combination of strength, balance, precision control and road-clinging suspension can win... that's what we mean by total performance.

Visit your Ford Dealer before you buy any other new car. Here's what you'll find: a new kind of total-car durability, a new kind of handling ability, a suspension that is startlingly smooth yet sticks to the road like tar. If you haven't driven one lately, you can't really know what a new Ford is like. Remember, it's built by Ford, it's built for performance... total performance!

Cincy's Power Decisions Pirates 5-2 In NL Opener

Robinson Belts Homer For Reds Other Loop Squads Start Action Today

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer Cincinnati Manager Fred Hutchinson played a punctuation game in his player rating book today, straightening the question marks following the names of Frank Robinson, Gene Freese and Pete Rose into big, fat exclamation points.

Robinson provided the power and Freese and Rose handled the finesse as the Reds began their bid for the National League pennant with a 5-2 victory Monday over the revamped Pittsburgh Pirates in the traditional baseball opener before 28,896 at Crosley Field.

The Reds will help Philadelphia open its schedule in a night after the rest of the league gets under way with an afternoon program that has Los Angeles at Chicago, San Francisco at Houston, Milwaukee at Pittsburgh and St. Louis at New York.

The Reds made good use of their head start as Robinson belted a first-inning two-run homer that sent Cincinnati ahead to stay while Rose and Freese piled up the doubleplays in support of Jim O'Toole's six-hit pitching.

Robinson hit under .200 last April and seemed headed for another slow start when he came up with a sore shoulder in spring training.

But the slugging outfielder who wound up batting .342 with 39 homers and 136 runs batted in as the Reds finished third last year, slashed a line drive in his first at bat, off Pittsburgh starter Earl Francis.

Freese, virtually a complete loss to the Reds last year after he suffered a broken leg in spring training, legged out an infield hit in a two-run second inning uprisig and moved well on the doubleplay by starting one.

Rose, a rookie not even on the Reds' roster, started at second base in place of veteran Don Blasingame, was involved in three smooth doubleplays and drew a walk before Robinson's homer.

Leo Cardenas' two-run second inning single and Gordie Coleman's homer in the sixth accounted for the Reds' other runs. Donn Clendenon's homer in the fourth got the Pirates started. Bob Halley scored the other run in the seventh when he singled and moved around on a balk, a walk and an error by O'Toole.

Another Boxer Is Injured During Fight

By The Associated Press Another Australian boxer was stricken after a ring beating and was taken to a hospital with a mild concussion today, as investigations into the recent rash of boxing deaths were pushed on several fronts.

The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore also launched a new attack against "means of useless massacre."

The boxer, Australian bantamweight champion Billy Males, was taken to St. George's Hospital in Sydney, where his condition was listed as not serious.

Males began vomiting after he lost a 12-round decision to Gene Aragon of the Philippines.

Two Australian boxers, pro Norman Smith and amateur Enzo Barrelli, died of ring injuries last week, along with Francisco Velasquez, 19, a Puerto Rican in the U.S. Army, who died after an amateur bout in Carbondale, Pa.

Vasquez' death was the fifth of the year, including featherweight champion Davey Moore, who died March 25, four days after he lost his title to Sugar Ramos in Los Angeles.

In the aftermath of the death in Pennsylvania, the Rev. Joseph T. Conboy, moderator of athletics at St. Michael's School for Boys at Hoban Heights said the school has dropped boxing.

A St. Michael's boy, Earl Johnson, 17, landed the blow that knocked out Velasquez.

Orioles Lift Lid On AL Season, Rip Senators 3-1; JFK On Hand For Tilt

By JIM BECKER Associated Press Sports Writer

President Kennedy, who says he has his good months and his bad ones, and the Washington Senators, who have mostly bad ones, are off and losing in the American League race.

The active baseball season is all over for the President, but the Senators, last a year ago, have 161 games to go.

The Baltimore Orioles, on the strength of two quick home runs in the second inning and the fact that most of the Washingtons hit the ball squarely at somebody, tripped the Senators 3-1 in the traditional opener in the national capital Monday.

There were 43,000 on hand, including the President, whose first and only pitch was low and wide.

The other America League teams open the long campaign today.

The New York Yankees begin their drive for a fourth straight flag at Kansas City. Although for a while this spring they had an injury list almost as long as the roster, only Roger Maris, hampered by a pulled left leg muscle, and pitching ace Whitey Ford, who has a sore left shoulder, will miss the opener. Ralph Terry, 23-12, will pitch for the Yanks against Diego Segui, 8-5.

Ray Herbert, 20-9, will pitch for the Chicago White Sox against Jim Bunning, 19-10, at Detroit, Bill Monbouquette, 15-13, will be on the mound for the Boston Red Sox against Ken McBride, 11-5, in Los Angeles, and Jim Grant, 7-10, will hurl for the Cleveland Indians against Camilo Pascual, 20-11, for the home Minnesota Twins, in the other openers.

The Senators and Orioles will be idle.

Lefty Steve Barber won the opener for the Orioles, but he had his troubles. The fastballer, who was in the Army much of last season and then got sick when he came back full time, was not overly sharp.

He gave up only seven hits, but the Senators hammered the ball hard. Stu Miller came on in the ninth inning, after a lead-off double by Minnie Mino, and got the side out.

All the Baltimore scoring was packed into a second-inning burst. With Don Rudolph, the loser, on the mound, Jim Gentile led off with a homer over the fence in right field. Al Smith drew a walk, and Boog Powell homered to the same place. The Orioles collected only four more hits.

Washington, presenting an almost completely new cast, got its run in the fifth inning, when Larry Osborn singled and Don Leppert doubled him to third. He scored on an infield out.

Tribe Sends Rookie-Studded Lineup Against Twins Today

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Cleveland Manager Birdie Tebbetts must have had a little prayer on his lips today as he sent his "babies" to do battle in the opening game of the Indians' 1963 season.

A rookie-studded lineup—one of the youngest starting lineups in Tribe history—goes against the Minnesota Twins, which fields a team little changed from the squad that developed into a pennant contender last year.

5 New Faces Will Start The average age of the Cleveland starters is 26, and the old man is Woodie Held, 31. There are five new faces, and all five are 25 or under.

One of the youngsters whom Tebbetts calls his babies just joined the Tribe last week and played in only two exhibition games with his teammates.

That is Ellis Burton, acquired from the Houston Colts, who got the nod over veteran Willie Kirkland for the right field spot.

Rookies Vic Davalillo, Tony Martinez and Max Alvis have been touted as having great potential.

If they get off to a good start his year it will be a big help for them, Tebbetts remarked.

"It can carry them all the way through the way it did for (Rich) Rollins last year."

Rollins Won't Play Rollins, of Parma, Ohio, a Cleveland suburb, got off to a flying start last year, was the Twins' top batter with a .298 average and won all-star and sophomore-of-the-year honors. He was left off today's lineup because of a broken jaw and is expected to be out three or four days.

What Tebbetts is attempting this year is the same thing that worked for Sam Mele, Minnesota manager last year. Mele went with rookies Rollins and Bernie Allen of East Liverpool, Ohio. The rookies came through, and the Twins finished a surprising second in the league.

For Cleveland hurler Jim (Mudcat) Grant, today gave him his first time to start an opener, which had been one of his goals in baseball.

Mele gave the opening assignment to Camilo Pascual, a 20-game winner last year.

Salem 5 Places 4th In State Pin Event

The Salem Five finished fourth in the Woman's State bowling tournament just completed at Warren after nine successive weeks of competition by 1,370 teams.

The Salem Five, composed of Ethel Bricker, JoAnn Crawford, Lois Tetlow, Erla Burrier and Mildred Kline, finished with 3,034 total pins.

Successfully defending their state title was the Hudapohl Beer quintet of Cincinnati, who rolled 2,789 to give them the actual pins team championship for the second successive year.

The Brookfield Builders of Elyria took the handicap team title with 3,097.

Irene Glow and Millie Halek of Cleveland annexed the actual pins doubles crown with 1,245, while Samuella Love and Sharon Dunlap of Newark are the new handicap doubles titleholders with 1,330.

Jean Justin of Cleveland is a double winner, firing 671 to take the actual pins singles championship, and 1,853 for the all-events title. Olga Bell of Warren is the new singles handicap champion with 748.

Salem Music Center Advance In Tourney

Bob King went on a 43-point scoring spree to spark the Salem Music Center to an 82-74 victory over Ellwood City, Pa., in the Independent Basketball Tournament at Sharon, Pa. Monday night.

The winners will face the Mercer City high school aggregation in a second round clash at Sharon Thursday night.

King connected on 20 of 28 from the field and three of five from the free throw lane. Craig Panier chipped in with 19.

Delisio paced the losers with 20. Fusco chalked up 18 markers.

A word from THERON at the Country Store

The Kelly Park road they graded last year so it would drain better has helped up very well this year. It looks to me like proper drainage is most important and a good investment in these secondary roads.

Before they properly drained the road in the spring you couldn't get through. I lost a couple very good customers by suggesting its improvement. I am sure I picked up more than I lost.

I never get angry when people suggest improvements even though I might not be able to make them at the moment. My critics are a big help to me.

Salem Bible College Flourishing Institute

School Enrollment Doubles Since '56 Founding

By VIRGINIA HURRAY

Seven years ago a school was established south of Salem on the same site where a denominational institute was forced to close because of lack of support.

But unlike the original venture, the school has flourished to an extent remarkable considering its humble beginning.

What is now Salem Bible College began on the wooded 13½ acres and in two neglected - for - lack-of-funds buildings (a dormitory and a classroom) which had been vacated by Immanuel Church.

In 1956, the new school's liabilities practically balanced assets of the campus on Woodsdale Road, a meandering path which leads off Depot Road and runs toward Guilford Lake.

FIRED BY A CONVICTION that a school fostering Bible education and preparation for Christian work is needed, the multi-denominational persons who operate Salem Bible College have an enviable record of progress, attested to by the following achievements:

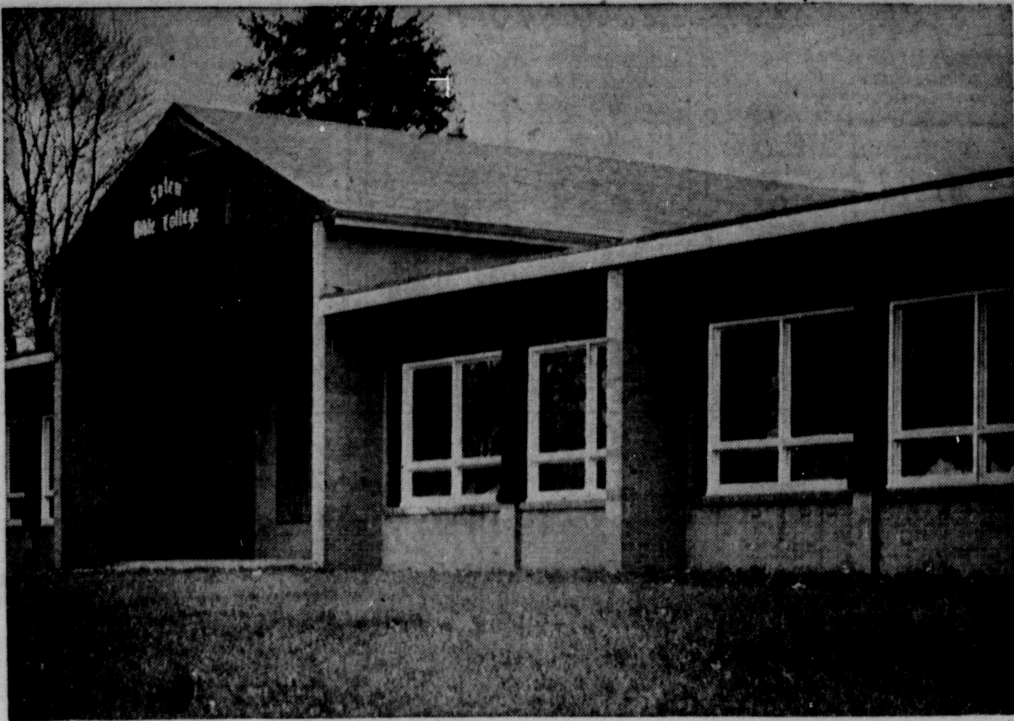

1. The school which began with a program for grades one-to-12 has extended its courses to include four years of college and even a year beyond that;

2. A $100,000 administration building of buff brick, and a $20,000 duplex house have been added to the school grounds; the campus has been landscaped; and the school's treasury now contains about $8,000 toward the building of a new dormitory;

3. The school's enrollment swelled from 85 in 1956, to 95 in 1957, to 132 in 1958, and to capacity enrollment of from 160 to 175 in each of the last four years.

SAYS REV. R. W. DUNN, school president and head of the 21-member faculty and staff "Our next building project is to be a dormitory for girls. We could have more students now if only we had the living facilities."

One third of the faculty lives on the campus. The majority of the school's 35 student boards

Salem Bible College's Modern Facade on Woodsdale Road

(who come from as far away as California) are in the college division of the school; a few are in the secondary division. None of the 73 elementary youngsters board.

The latter are brought to school daily by parents or by the school's bus which makes a round trip each school day from and to Alliance, originating its route each morning about 7:30 in that city. An automobile out of Niles, one from Lisbon and one from Leetonia also transport students.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES will take place this year from May 26-30, during which seven of the 55 college students and 11 of the 47 high school boys and girls will be graduated.

College classes take place from 6 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, and among the enrollment are a number of married students who work various shifts in Salem and nearby communities.

The purpose of Salem Bible College is to prepare its students for the ministry, to assist in the ministry, and/or to be in some sort of Christian work.

"There would be no reason for a young person to enroll with us unless he or she plans to go into Christian work, with one exception: We feel that dividends are paid to anyone living in a Christ-an environment, and a year of this kind of school is sometimes recommended before a student goes on to pursue a secular career, such as teaching.

"WE DO NOT OFFER LIBERAL arts," Rev. Dunn explains. "All our courses are designed to contribute directly to the education of the man and woman who will be in some phase or phases of church work."

Among college courses are Philosophy, Christian Ethics, Greek, Hebrew and Spanish. The latter is offered to accommodate students who will some day go to missionary fields in Spanish speaking countries.

"We teach all of the Bible, and we have what we consider an unusual course on Prayer," the school head points out.

Graduates and former faculty members are in Guatemala, Egypt and Africa, as well as in various areas of the United States, spreading knowledge of the Bible.

SALEM BIBLE SCHOOL is chiefly patronized and operated by denominations known as "the fundamentalists," who include Wesleyan Methodist, Brethren in Christ, Pilgrim Holiness, Nazarene and the Bible Holiness Group.

However, Rev. Dunn points out: "We will admit a student of any denomination so long as he or she will follow our rules and standards."

The latter follow conservative lines, Rev. Dunn admits. Exhortations of the Bible regarding mode of appearance and manner for both male and female students are emphasized. Tobacco and alcohol are not used. No television set is to be found on the campus or in the homes of any of the faculty members.

"WE DO NOT FEEL THAT TV is an all-bad thing. It's just that we believe that the advantages of television for leading a Christian life are outweighed by the disadvantages."

Students who come from homes with television may not discuss TV programs with other students, whose peace might thus be disturbed. "Incidentally, we observe that our youngsters who come from homes without TV generally do a better job of their studies than do those with the TV distraction," declares the minister.

Rev. Dunn, a native of North Carolina, pastored in the Allegheny Conference of the Wesleyan Church in Canton before taking on the reins of the Salem school, for which Mrs. Dunn is secretary.

Their 26-year-old son Wayne, a graduate of Mount Union College, teaches music at the school, and their 17-year-old daughter Priscilla is among the students to be graduated in the school's secondary division this year.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT

'QT' Club Cheers Patients

Dr. Brandstadt

Yesterday I discussed ulcerative colitis. This disease and malignant tumors of the colon may require that all or most of the colon be removed, and that a new opening for the discharge of waste be made in the abdominal wall.

Most persons approach this operation with dread because they have not been told of the new life waiting for them, freed from severe dietary restrictions, pain, a haggard, half-starved appearance, diarrhea, weakness, and semi-invalidism.

This situation is being corrected by the formation of "QT clubs," each member of which must have had an ileostomy.

THE FIRST QT CLUB was formed in 1950. Now there are 28 such clubs in 22 states and five in Canada. QT New York has 850 members. These clubs inform doctors, the public, and especially the terror-stricken candidate for removal of the colon of the latest advances in the management of the ileostomy.

QT Boston (227 Commonwealth Ave., Boston 16, Mass.) has published a "Manual for Ileostomy Patients" which every person with an ileostomy should have.

QT CLUBS offer two essential kinds of help for ileostomy patients: emotional and practical. First of all, the prospective member lying despondent in his hospital bed is visited by a member. This is a very heartening experience, because the victim sees before him a living proof that after this operation a person can be healthy, active and cheerful.

The prospective member hears that, thanks to improvements in the ileostomy bag he must wear, he will be able to participate in sports, swimming, and dancing. Women patients are visited by women members who prove that after the operation one may still be able to wear a sheath dress without the appliance showing. A woman will be assured that her operation will not interfere with marriage or parenthood.

On the practical side, members of QT clubs get together and exchange ideas about the technique of living without a colon. New members learn the "tricks of the trade" from old members. They try out new appliances and report on them to doctors, manufacturers, and other members.

Q — My 14-year-old son has Crohn's disease. He has been in the hospital twice but has not been operated on. He does well in school but, because of extreme loss of weight, he cannot participate in sports which he loves. What should he do?

A — Crohn's disease or regional ileitis is an inflammation of the small intestine. It is similar in many ways to ulcerative colitis. It causes diarrhea, abdominal pain, loss of appetite, loss of weight, and weakness.

The cause is unknown and for this reason supportive treatment is all that can be offered. In the acute phase bed rest is necessary. A nourishing diet with no roughage and injections of vitamins is an important part of the treatment.

Cortisone or other steroid hormones, taken for a short time only, may bring about a vast improvement. If the disease persists, the inflamed segment of intestine must be removed.

Devine Says Soviets Got Ransom Medicine

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union may have received the millions of dollars worth of American medicine used to ransom Bay of Pigs prisoners, Rep. Samuel L. Devine, R-Ohio, says.

Devine, who returned Sunday from a visit to the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo Bay in Cuba, said exiles taking refuge there expressed that belief.

He said the exiles told him that medicine is in great shortage in Cuba and that prices are high. "One husband stated that his wife was ill and went to Havana for treatment. She was charged $30, U.S. money, for one injection (presumably penicillin)," Devine said.

"The exiles agreed that the medicines sent into Cuba by the United States were sent to Russia and hardly any is available for Cubans," he added.
